

DANIEL VILLARROEL TORREZ

Grupo de Estudios Ambientales (GEA)

Argentina

I'm from Santa Cruz de la Sierra, Bolivia, a city that sprawls between the Andes mountains, the Amazonian forest and the Dry Chaco. I hold a bachelor's degree on Environmental Science and currently I'm studying the effects that land use changes in the lowlands of Bolivia have on different ecosystems processes. Apart from that, my main interest is in being able to better link the generation of socio-ecological knowledge and it's applications in the "real world". In my spare time I play the drums and sing in a rock band, and I'm a craft beer enthusiast.