

GABRIEL HENRIQUE LUI
Ministry of the Environment
Brazil

Gabriel Lui is Environmental Analyst from the Ministry of the Environment of Brazil, where he worked as Director of Sustainable Rural Development and Manager of the National Plans to Control Deforestation. He is Research Associate at the Center for the Analysis of Social-Ecological Landscapes (CASEL), Indiana University, USA. He received his PhD in Applied Ecology from the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil. His professional interests include environmental public policies, social benefits and conditional cash transfer programs, land use and land cover change, and rural development.