

FERNANDO ARAGÓN-DURAND

Centro Mario Molina

Mexico

Fernando Aragón-Durand is a PhD in Planning Studies (Development Planning Unit/University College London) Specialized in risk, vulnerability and disaster in Latin America urban contexts. Dr. Aragón-Durand is member of the expert panel of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change/United Nations (IPCC), working group II “Impacts, Vulnerability and Adaptation”, chapter 8 Urban areas adaptation to climate change for the 5th assessment report. He is also fellow of the Leadership for Environment and Development Program (www.lead.org). For the last 12 years Dr. Aragón-Durand has studied the social construction of natural disasters and risk at policy level. Since more than 15 years he has been consultant and researcher for several institutions in Mexico and has written a number of book chapters and papers on risk, climate change adaptation and policy. Currently Dr. Aragón-Durand is elaborating a Climate Change Program for the Universidad Autónoma de Honduras, lectures at the Faculty of Economics of the National Autonomous University of Mexico and is in charge of the vulnerability and climate change adaptation analysis for the Mario Molina Centre in Mexico City.