

LEONARDO RIBEIRO TEIXEIRA

Instituto Brasileiro de Meio Ambiente e Recursos Naturais Renováveis
Brazil

Agronomist at the Federal University of Viçosa (2000), between 2001 and 2002 he was secretary of environment of the Itapira City, São Paulo state. During 2003 and 2004 he was coordinator of the sector of control of forest products at the Juína's IBAMA office, in the amazon. He headed the regional office of the Brazilian Institute of Environment and Renewable Natural Resources - IBAMA in the Paraíba Valley and Northern Coast of São Paulo state from 2005 until 2010. Nowadays he is environmental analyst at the IBAMA and PhD student at the Program in Environment and Society NEPAM / UNICAMP. Primarily operates in the areas: Environmental Law with emphasis in the Environmental Licensing, Integrated Analysis of Impacts, Megaprojects, Environmental Emergencies, land use management, Control of Forestry Products, Environmental Monitoring, and Conservation Units.