

PAULA PALMA MOLINA

Centro para el Impacto Socioeconómico de las Políticas Ambientales, CESIEP
Chile

Paula Palma is a Veterinarian from the University of Viña del Mar, Chile, and Master in Agricultural Economics from the Pontificia Universidad Católica of Chile. She is currently working as an associate researcher at the Millennium Nucleus CESIEP and the Center of Applied Ecology and Sustainability (CAPES) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, estimating the socioeconomic impact of protected areas in Chile and its causality mechanisms. She has a particular interest in rural development, agricultural sustainability, valuation of ecosystem services and the social, environmental and economic impact of public policies.