

MARÍA NATALIA ZALDÚA COUSIN

Sub-Regional Office for the Southern Cone, United Nations Environment Programme
Uruguay

Born and raised in the northern city of Salto, Uruguay, Natalia currently lives in Montevideo where she studied Biology and obtained a Master's Degree in Biological Sciences. Since September 2015 she has been supporting the UN Environment Sub-Regional Office for the Southern Cone, regarding management and assistance on national and regional environmental issues. Natalia has a professional background in the public sector (as an Environmental Specialist for the Wind Energy Program -Ministry of Energy- and the biomass energy project PROBIO run by the Ministries of Environment, Energy and Agriculture) as well as in the private sector and with Non-governmental organizations related to the environment (such as Vida Silvestre Uruguay).